

The historical Indian Agency House was built in 1832 for the Indian Agent, John Kinzie, and his wife Juliette. The house was built by the U.S. government for the agent to do his work with the Winnebago Indians.

Since 1932, it has been owned and operated as a museum by the Colonial Dames in Wisconsin.

The honeycomb pattern was commonly used in 1832, as well as the colors turkey red and indigo blue.
