

The farm property has been in the family since 1856 when Albert Lovering and his wife, Jane Patterson Lovering, moved from New Hampshire to Wisconsin. Jane Manke's great-great grandparents bought the property from her brothers who inherited the land from their father.

The steel barn was constructed in 2006, and Jane's husband uses it as a shop and hobby space.