This farm has been in the family 129 years, having been purchased by Inglebret Peter in 1881. The building which has the quilt was built in 1981. Originally used as a farm machine storage shed, it continues to be used for storage. The design of the barn included large doors for easy access with larger machinery.

Inglebret and Anna Peterson came to America from Norway in 1855. They settled in Dekorra township and lived in an abandoned log house on 40 acres of land. Together they had 16 children. The youngest son, Albert, took over the farm in 1934. After Albert's death in 1965 his youngest son, William, took over the farm. William died in 2010 and now his son, Albert, farms the land. Over the years more land was bought; now the farm consists of 450 acres.
